Over the years Schola Cantorum has been recognized for lively and evocative performances of Renaissance Sacred Music. With Joel Cohen, we have performed at Tanglewood and served as the chorus for the Boston Camerata, winning several prizes for recordings ranging from Early American Shaker Music to French Baroque works to music from the New World. Schola Cantorum has also performed at the annual convention of the American Renaissance Society and the Boston Early Music Festival. Founder and Director Frederick Jodry has been acclaimed as an organist and singer, and since 1991 as the conductor of the Brown University Chorus.
